Hongkong, September 3ed, 1878.

THAT a belief exists among the Chinese criminal population of Hongkong and the adjoining mainland that they will now treated with unprecedented leniency we have constant proof. On Saturday a criminal who had been deported in 1876 was brought up at the Police Court charged with unlawfully returning from deportation, when he urged in defence that he had been told the present Governor allowed deported men to return to the Colony. This impression among the Chinese is due to two or three causes. His Excellency, soon after his arrival, set to work to effect various Toforms in the prison discipline, suspended the punishment of flogging, expressed doubts as to the wisdom or efficacy of deportation, and later on pardoned one or two notorious offenders for services rendered to the sufferers by the Yesso explosion. These things, combined with some injudicious remarks he le fall on two or three occasions about the treatment of Chinese prisoners, served to imbue the natives with a belief-that he intended to be their friend, to stand between them and the law in its harsher working, and to enable them to enjoy greater freedom from restraint and more room for the exercise of their wits in spoiling honest citizens In this, however, they have made a great mistake. While quarrelling with the system of prison discipline in force in Victoria Gaol, commencing at nine p.m. The following is the His Excellency, of course, had no desire to programme:increase the facilities of the criminal nor to make the Colony a safer asylum for him. It is high time that this mistake should be rectified. Crimes of violence are plainly on the increase, and it is necessary that a wise severity should be employed to counteract the erroneous-impressions that have been scattered broadcast along the coast and up the Canton river. As we remarked the other day, the punishment of flogging is again being put into requisition, and the salutary effects of its renewal will no doubt soon become apparent. What with burglaries, aggravated assaults, and murders, the police statistics are rapidly becoming most him and cutting his head with a tin onp-Fined serious. THE ENGLISH FLAG IN SOCOTRA The Indian, Government has re-occupied the island of Socotra, and the British flag was reheisted there some six weeks ago. This island is off the Gulf of Aden, situated about 150 miles N.E. from Cane Guardafui, and extends about 70 miles from west to east, with an average width of 15 miles. It contain 1.100 square miles, consisting chiefly of a table land, which is between 700 and 800 feet above the level of the sea. North and south of the table dand are two plains. northern plain is not so slow as the southern, nor so level, the surface being intersected by flat valleys in many places. The western districts of this plain, though less stevile than the southern plain are more adapted for pastures than for oultivation. The captern districts have a superior soil, which is a reddish earth, covered in certain seasons with abundant crass, and well adapted for the cultivation of grain, fruit, and vegetables. In most of the northern plains most daily fall of rain. There are about 5:000 inhabitants consisting of two distinct races -namely. Arabs who have settled of the island, and the aboriginal inhabitants who are Bedouins, wandering from one part of the island to another with their flocks and herds. The principal commercial products are alces of the finest quality, the dragon's blood tree, tumerinds, tobacco, and various fruits and gums, besides some cotton and indigo. Sheep and goats in the western districts constitute the principal wealth of the inhabitants; the oxen are small. The civet cat and chameleon are distributed all over the island. Turtles are found on the southern coast. Fish abound on several parts of the coast, and many families live on the produce of their fishing. The capital is Tamarida, built not far from the northern shores. The island was taken possession of by the Portuguese in 1507. As the island lies almost directly in the line of our communication with India from the Red Sea, it has acquired additional im portance by the construction of the Seez Canal and this consideration has it is understood, determined the action of the Indian Government. -Shipping and Mercantile Guzette.

RUSSIAN MISSION TO KABUL.

By newsletter from Kabul we learn of the ar ival there of a Russian mission of three European officers accompanied by an escort of Cossacks and Usbegs. The head of the mission is believed to be General Abramoff, the Russian Governor-General of Samarcand. The mission reached Kabul on the 22nd July, and was received by the Amir in durbar, when the object of the mission delivered two letters to the Amir. one from the Czar and one from the Governor-General of Purkestan. HEAT IN THE RED SEA.

A correspondent writes from on board the Yepqul:-"The heat in the Red Sea has been bnormally severe this year the thermometer touching 99 degrees, which never happens in ordinary seasons, the temperature of the air seldom rising above that of the volume of vapour ascending from the water .- i.e., the temperature of the sea itself, from 90 degrees to 93 degrees in summer. Many boxes of letters are received at the Post Office not sealed, that is to say, the box is fastened with sealing wax, but there is no impression of a seal. The attention of boxholders is called to the some recognisable seal, and of sending a chitbook or receipt with them. The omission of the latter precaution leaves a doubt as to whe. ther the contents of the box ever reached the Post Office; the omission of the former, as to whether part of them might not have been abstreeted for the sake of the Postage Stamps.

CONVERSATIONAL BORES. Suppose a man begins to descant (I take an extreme instance) upon blue china ; you feel of course that it is an outrage upon your intelligence; you grow more and more irritated with him, and would give all you have in the world to be locked up for five minutes with a big stick and all the blue china in his possession. But if you don't stop him at once, you find, as the wretch goes on, your indignation give way to despair; the ear grows jaded, the brain seems to fall in from premature decay, and for a time you become as great a fool as the Chinamaniac.
